

STATE OF TEXAS
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Throughout Texas, our dedicated health care professionals provide invaluable services to the people of the Lone Star State. While many Texans receive this quality care in a medical facility or institution, some choose a different setting.

Many Texans elect to receive their medical care through home care and hospice. These services offer assistance with daily activities and provide professional medical care to disabled, chronically ill and elderly individuals. Home care and hospice are vital to those who prefer the comfort and convenience of a home setting.

During the month of November, an awareness campaign will be conducted to highlight home care and hospice as alternatives to hospitalization and other forms of institutional health care. It will also be a time to recognize the dedicated home care and hospice professionals who help many individuals achieve a better quality of life.

At this time, I encourage all Texans to learn more about home care and hospice options and to recognize the invaluable contributions of all Texas health care providers.

Therefore, I, Rick Perry, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim November 2011 to be

Home Care and Hospice Month

in Texas, and urge the appropriate recognition whereof.

In official recognition whereof,
I hereby affix my signature this the 20th day of October, 2011.

Governor of Texas
